Speak Up Conservatives!

Empowered political expression is central to our First Amendment right to freedom of speech. But often union conservatives feel our voices are absent from the unified, organized union voice. As a committee, our job is to change that dynamic and empower SEA conservative members to accomplish their goals through a meaningful, focused and political approach to issues of importance to all SEA members and their families.

SEIU provided funding for conservative member demonstration projects in three states: Wisconsin, Pennsylvania and New Hampshire. There are over 4,000 conservative voices at the SEA. It's time to bring them together in one united vision and amplify our voices.

We must use our core values - wages, benefits and working conditions - to accomplish goals in support of family, community and country. Together we can wield the power of collective bargaining, not only to balance the power our employers hold, but also to win for ourselves the respect and dignity that is the right of all workers.

Conservative Members Committee

The SEA/SEIU Local 1984 Conservative Members Committee provides members with a valuable means of self-expression, and can offer a significant contribution to achievement of bipartisan support for, and passage of, crucial legislation benefiting all SEA members and their families. The committee also gives conservative members a team to discover effective ways to engage their power.

Massachusetts
Troublemakers School

Please consider signing up for this class coming to Worcester State University on 6/1/2019.

They plan a day of skill-building workshops, education, and strategy discussions to put some movement back in the labor movement.

The school will be a great opportunity for union members and labor activists to share strategies and build the solidarity required in these tough times.

A light breakfast, lunch, and workshop materials are included with registration.

Workshops include: Secrets of a Successful Organizer, Building Power at Your Worksite, Open Bargaining, Health and Safety, and more! We will have a full agenda for the school, including workshops and plenaries, as we get closer.

For more information about registering and transportation, please contact us a SEA.
